Rural Development Offices

USDA Rural Development administers nearly fifty Federal programs that help build infrastructure and capacity in rural Oklahoma: housing, water, sewer, hospitals, fire & police, schools, libraries, small business, community centers, regional food systems, high-speed internet, telephone, electricity, renewable energy, and many more.

Customers are free to contact any office. While each office does not administer every program, our helpful staff will be happy to match your project with the appropriate Rural Development employee.
